Veterinary Technology

► Glenwood Springs-Spring Valley

An equine teaching barn. A surgical suite. Small animal hospitals with kennel and treatment areas. A 220-acre farm that gives you hands-on experience with horses, cattle, sheep, and wild raptors in addition to cats and dogs. Our teaching hospital was designed by veterinarians to approximate a working veterinary hospital, in a program accredited by the American Veterinary Medical Association. Graduates from our highly respected program have close to a 100% pass rate on their Veterinary Technician National Exams.

Animal Shelter Management

► Glenwood Springs-Spring Valley

Learn the skills required to manage an animal shelter in a real-life facility. Colorado Mountain College offers the nation's only certification program in Animal Shelter Management.

The Colorado Animal Rescue (C.A.R.E.) Animal Shelter, located right on campus, provides care and services to hundreds of homeless animals. This real-life shelter offers students unique opportunities to learn and work outside of the classroom. You'll learn how to facilitate adoptions, secure funding for shelter facilities and care for cats, dogs, birds, reptiles and more.
